M. BOPPE, FRENCH ENVOY SINCE 1918, DIES AT CAPITAL

Death Follows Operation For Acute Appendicitis Last Thursday

POPULAR IN PEKING

Loss Proves Severe Blow To Both Chinese And Foreign Community

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 15.—The Chinese with whom he came into contact in the diplomatic and social world, and also all classes and nationalities of foreigners in Peking have been deeply distressed to learn of the death of the French Minister, M. Boppe. This took place yesterday evening, following upon an operation on Thursday for acute appendicitis, after which he gradually sank. M. Boppe had been Minister here since 1918.

M. A. Boppe, French Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary, dean of the diplomatic body at Peking, died at his home in the capital Saturday night, after a short illness, of appendicitis. He was stricken ill Friday May 7, and four days later was operated on. Saturday morning doctors to M. Wilken, French consul-general at Shanghai, reported that the Minister was progressing satisfactorily. A relapse occurred however and death came in the evening.

Three years ago M. Boppe was appointed to the post at Peking. He was well known not only in the capital but throughout China, and leaves many friends in Foreign and Chinese circles who will hear of his death with deep and sincere regret. M. Boppe was in Shanghai only three months ago, and his visit is still fresh in the minds of the community.

All of M. Boppe's life was spent in the French diplomatic service. He was about 55 years of age. Early in his career he was appointed to a post at Constantinople and later to the Ministry of Serbia. He was the French representative at Belgrade during the final Serbian retreat, which he accompanied out of the country. Mme. Boppe is in Peking; her three children are at present in France. It has not yet been learned in Shanghai what funeral arrangements are being made.

Senator Kenyon Wants Strong Navy

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

Washington, May 15.—In the Senate yesterday, Senator Kenyon advocated a strong American navy. The Government, he said, favored partial disarmament, but complete disarmament would never be accomplished.

The talk of war with the Japanese, Senator Kenyon added, was causing a drift towards war, although neither people desired it. The Senator suggested that an American Commission, composed of prominent men, should confer with a similar Japanese Commission.

Ex-Speaker's Brother Wins Commons Seat

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 14.—The bye-election in Penrith and Cockermouth division, occasioned by the retirement of Mr. J. W. Lowther, until recently Speaker of the House of Commons, resulted as follows:

Mr. Cecil Lowther (Coalition Unionist, and brother of the Ex-Speaker) 7,878.
Mr. Collison (Independent Liberal) 7,647.

The seat had not been opposed since 1895.

In Abington Division, vacated by Brigadier General Wigan, Mr. Thomas Lloyd (Coalition-Unionist) has been returned unopposed.

Strikers Fail To Tie Up Cunard Liner

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 14.—Despite the seamen's threat that they would not sail with volunteer stewards, the Aquitania sailed for New York today.

She carried 2,600 passengers, including 13 babies, with a complement of 644 hands. The number of stewards was complete, the majority of them being trade unionists. Only 150 volunteers were required.

Tokio, May 14.—The Yokohama Docks discharged 1,482 employees this morning, paying them a special allowance of from one to two months' wages.

TIENTSIN PARLEY SPELLS RUIN FOR CHEKIANG TUCHUN

Northern Warlords Challenge Lu Yung-hsiang, Who Is Forced To Resign

Lu Yung-hsiang, Tuchun of Chekiang, has tendered his resignation as a result of the Tientsin Conference, according to news brought here by influential Hangchow officials who spent the weekend in Shanghai. The isolated position of the Chekiang chiefdom is given as the main cause of his action.

Lu's attempts to curry favor with the North China warlords have met with little success, because according to reports, the Northern militarists still remembered bitterly Lu's close connection with the Anfu crowd and his loyal support for his master and patron, Marshal Tuan Chih-jui.

Immediately after Tuan's fall, Lu sought to associate himself with the other Anfu military remnants, Chen Shu-fang of Shensi and Li Hao-chi of Fukien. On account of the geographical position, little success was achieved with Chen. With Li, Lu had some understanding, but when Dr. Sun Yat-sen set up his government in Canton, Li was kept busy for his own safety, leaving Lu alone to work out his own salvation.

Lu fought desperately for his position. At first he tried to curry popular favor and gain publicity by advocating the abolition of the tuchunate in China but when local organizations asked him to resign from the tuchunship as an example for the other militarists, he hesitated and later ignored the suggestion.

When the Central Government ordered him to hold the parliamentary election in his province, he openly opposed the move, because he expected that public opinion would be in his favor if he did. To his great disappointment, the gentry remained indifferent. When Mang Chuan-yuan, Inspector-General of Hupeh and Hunan, was gathering power by the establishment of a Yangtze Tsuchun League, Lu humbly offered his allegiance, which was accepted.

But when Wang Chuan-yuan reached Peking, he learned of the odds against Lu, Tsao Kun and Chang Tso-lin, the principal actors in the Tientsin drama, declared that they would not have the Chekiang Tsuchun disobey their orders and recommended that he carry out orders at once by holding the Parliamentary election or retire in favor of one their own Neutentants, preferably Wu Pei-fu or Feng Yu-hsiang.

SINN FEINERS MAKE DARING ATTEMPT TO FREE LEADER

Arthur Griffith "Vice President," Almost Released

MANY OUTRAGES

Series Of Attacks Perpetrated In London And Liverpool

London, May 14.—A daring but unsuccessful attempt has been made by Sinn Feiners in Dublin to release Arthur Griffith, the Sinn Fein "Vice-President" from Mountjoy Prison.

Following a light in which one soldier was killed and another wounded, an armored car which was on its way to the Prison was captured by a party of rebels. Subsequently the car appeared at the Prison and its occupants, in the uniform of British officers, were admitted and produced documents which they carried. They succeeded in removing Griffith and four other Sinn Fein prisoners from their cells, but were forced to abandon them at the barrier and bolt for the car, in which they made their escape amid a hail of bullets. The car was afterwards found where they had left it on the Howth road.

It is reported that the Governor of the Prison and his assistant were bound after the raiders had produced their documents.

London, May 15.—A further outrage attributed to Sinn Fein was perpetrated last night at St. Albans by three men armed with revolvers, who entered a house there, shot and wounded a former member of the Royal Irish Constabulary and his wife, and after striking them over the head with the butts of their revolvers, made their escape.

A series of outrages, similar to those in London, last night occurred simultaneously at Liverpool.

The intruders comprised small groups of armed and masked men who used motors and visited the houses of relatives of Royal Irish Constabularymen, which they set on fire.

London, May 15.—According to the News of the World, a number of outrages were perpetrated in London last night. They were apparently organized by Sinn Fein and were carried out by masked and armed men, all of whom escaped.

In one case three youths, armed with revolvers, are stated to have entered a house at Catford, where they fired at and wounded a man and his wife, though the wounds are not serious. The miscreants then escaped on bicycles. Four men called at a house at Shepherd's Bush, and asked for a man who is in Ireland. They fired at and wounded the occupier. Several armed men also forced an entrance into a house at Totterham. Having sprinkled a quantity of petrol about, they set fire to the place. The fire brigade extinguished the flames, but not before serious damage had been done.

London, May 14.—The elections to the Southern Irish Parliament are complete with the return, unopposed, of 124 Republicans and four Conservatives.

TRANSPORT AND RAIL MEN BACK DOWN, COAL MOVES

Unions Realise Futility Of Crippling Whole Nation

NEW CONFERENCE

Lloyd George Invites Miners And Owners To Fresh Parley

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 14.—It is unlikely that there will be an extension of the industrial trouble during the week-end. It is stated that the Prime Minister has invited the coal-owners and miners to a fresh conference at Chequers, after the Whit Sunday, when he has issued entertaining Crown Prince Hirohito.

Meanwhile, coal is being moved from the ports to the industrial centers without a hitch.

London, May 14.—A dramatic change has occurred in the coal situation. It appears that the transport workers and railwaymen are reasserting their common sense and recognizing that public feeling on the question of a strike-against the nation is strongly against them. Mr. Frank Hodges, Secretary of the Miners' Federation, has declared that the psychological moment for action by the Triple Alliance has gone and that the best and only way to give the miners now would be funds. Mr. Cramp, the railwaymen's secretary, has, moreover, eased the situation by an instruction that full wages be paid to the suspended railwaymen.

The workmen at the Greenwich power station have struck, hoping to paralyze the South London tramways, which, however, have continued operation, thanks to the assistance rendered by officials and volunteers.

American Experts To Investigate Iron And Coal Mines In China

(U. S. Navy Radio through Reuter)

San Francisco, May 14.—A commission of six mining experts will sail from Seattle to China in June for a geological and engineering examination of iron ore and coal deposits in Manchuria for the South Manchurian Railway. It is announced here that the commission includes Mr. Frank Hutchinson and Mr. L. D. Davenport. The Commission will establish its headquarters at Dairen.

The iron deposits are a hundred and fifty miles north of Dairen, near the Anshan Canal in the neighborhood of Mukden.

U.S. Labor Rejects Alien Union Scheme

Not Much Chance Of Getting A Poker Sweat

MISS Annette Kellerman, noted swimmer, and R. L. "Snowy" Baker, famous Australian athlete and sporting authority, met for the first time recently after a lapse of fifteen years. Mr. Baker, fifteen years ago, taught Miss Kellerman to swim and dive in the waters of the Antipodes. Recently, while on a visit to Los Angeles he learned that Miss Kellerman was appearing at a local theater, and he decided to renew the old acquaintance. To bring back the memories of the days when both worked together they donned bathing suits and enjoyed a swim in the big tank Miss Kellerman uses in her act. The photograph shows the two playing cards in the tank.

Biceps Greater Than Brain, Judged By Shanghai Clubs

BY ELSIE MCCORMICK

Shanghai may not be the worst police city in the world. But it is certainly the most thoroughly clubbed. By this statement we refer, not to the genial slinks who playfully dent in the roof of any richie coolie placing a straw shoe over the traffic deadline, but to the many, many haves afforded to the man energetically trying to prove that there is no place like home. Shanghai is the married man's City of Refuge. It offers him more opportunities to escape an evening in an easy chair with a wife-placed pillow making his neck uncomfortable than any other metropolis of its size in the world.

At home the situation is just reversed. We know of a lady who belonged to twelve women's clubs and whose husband informed her that when she joined the thirteenth she would be eligible for the Married Women's Alumnae Association. An invitation to become a member of the Saturday Morning Rubie Goldberg Study Club or something proved too much of a temptation and her husband made good his threat by securing a decree that left all her time free for club work.

THE REAL CLUB LIFE

In Shanghai there are only a few women's clubs and their schedules are by no means all-absorbing, even to the ladies who join everything from the Gardening Section to the Literary Department. The real club life of the city sings bass and cuts its hair. There is at least one large national organization which never permits women to cross its threshold, not even holding those hectic "Ladies' Days" which are sometimes preceded by a censoring of the wall decorations and instructions to the Number One Boy not to appear too well-acquainted with married members who are frequently detained in town by business. On Saturday afternoons one can see a long line of automobiles before the clubs, each populated by a chauffeur and a lonely lady. At intervals the chauffeur enters to send word above that he "have got missed downside," but he usually returns accompanied by nothing but a vacant expression.

After several such efforts, he appears about dusk with a gentleman so well illuminated that after dark the headlights are quite superfluous. This club is not popular with ladies.

In practically all the city's organizations that boast club rooms, the Number One Boy is a person who combines the diplomatic talents of Prince Metetrnich with an intuition that verges on clairvoyance. He recognizes the dinner-is-getting-cold voice of a waiting wife as quickly as he does the Dealer of

GERMANS WARNED NOT TO USE LLOYD GEORGE SPEECH AS EXCUSE FOR FIGHTING

If Troops Are Sent To Upper Silesia Berlin Will Bear Responsibility For Violating Treaty, Says Premier Briand

BRITISH LEADER USES STRONG TERMS

Bitterly Assails Polish Insurgents And Insists Berlin Should Have Right To Suppress Them—French Press Denounces Attitude

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, May 15.—The Echo says M. Briand has informed the German Government that should he feel it his duty to take Mr. Lloyd George's speech as an excuse for sending troops to Upper Silesia, he will accept responsibility for violating the Peace Treaty and will bear the consequences.

In the Avenir, M. Maurice Geneste states that in his impromptu speech, Mr. Lloyd George did not consider certain redoubtable eventualities.

"We must not become unnerved," M. Geneste continues. "France must find a suitable solution for this unfortunate question of Upper Silesia in accordance with the Treaty of Versailles and the results of the plebiscite. It will not be the first time that she has set an example of common sense."

Le Temps remarks that Mr. Lloyd George's speech in the House of Commons regarding Upper Silesia has raised a storm of feeling in Belgium. The Belgian press, it asserts, is unanimous in sharply criticizing the British Prime Minister.

The Independence Belge and Libre Belgique, though they approve his reference to the necessity of respecting the Treaty of Versailles in all its provisions, differ with the views expressed by Mr. Lloyd George regarding Upper Silesia.

The Vingtieme Siecle considers that the British Prime Minister wished to confront the Allies with a fait accompli before the return of the United States to the Supreme Council since the American delegates are likely to reinforce the supporters of French views.

Lloyd George Bitterly Assails Polish Rebels

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 14.—In the course of his speech, or, as it is described by some of his hearers, an explosion, in the House of Commons yesterday, on the subject of the sanctity of treaties, with special reference to Poland and delivered with unusual feeling, emphatic gestures and a vigorous phrasing, Mr. Lloyd George declared:

"If we do not deal with the Polish insurgents with stern justice, it will be fatal to the peace of Europe, and if this is disturbed I cannot see what is going to happen in the world, and I am alarmed—I am frightened, I use this phrase deliberately. "Unless confidence is restored to the world to enable it to begin work again, the consequences must be of the most terrible character. Therefore we must decide fairly and sternly according to the pact we ourselves have signed. "The freedom of Poland is based on the Treaty of Versailles. It may be a bad and harsh treaty, but the last country in the world entitled to complain is Poland. She did not win the Treaty. She did not win the war. Half her sons, under the banner of Russia, fought for, and the other half against, the Allies. The former were beaten, broken and driven like cattle. The latter fought to the end. Poland fell, and had we depended on the pro-Ally Polish armies, Poland today would have been a German or an Austrian province. "There is not a letter in the Treaty of Versailles that does not mean a young British life and nearly two French lives, and there were hundreds of thousands of Italians. "Korffanty now talks of dying rather than surrendering. If the Poles had thought of that earlier, there would have been fewer British, French and Italian lives lost, but they only thought of it when Germany was disarmed and helpless."

equally with the Germans, the Prime Minister predicted that force would count less and less with the Treaty of Versailles and that the honor and credit of Germany and her signature of the bond would count more and more.

Mr. Lloyd George went on to picture "these 60,000,000 powerful, courageous and resourceful people" regaining their vitality and asking what the Allies did with their bond, and he said solemnly to Great Britain and the Allies—"It is not merely a matter of honor. It is a matter of safety that we adhere to the Treaty when it is for it and it is against us."

"I dislike and I fear this trifling with the Treaty, and this saying that 'after all, they are only Germans.'"

The Prime Minister expressed the opinion that it would not be difficult for the Allies to restore order in Silesia, but as Great Britain was obliged to withdraw her troops, she could not insist on the Allies' jeopardizing the lives of their soldiers, but she could insist on the alternative that the Germans be allowed to enforce respect for the Treaty, in what, until the decision has been announced, is a German province.

"It is unfair to disarm Germany and not permit her troops to participate in restoring order," Mr. Lloyd George concluded. "Fair play is what Great Britain stands for, and I hope the world stands thus to the end."

PRESS LAUDS PREMIER

London, May 14.—Differences of opinion and policy have been raised in a more acute form by Mr. Lloyd George's speech on the Silesian imbroglio. The speech is generally hailed by the British press as honest, courageous and statesmanlike, and worthy of the most honorable British traditions in face of the Polish attempts to make the Treaty of Versailles but "a scrap of paper."

The French press is astonished at the speech, which the Petit Parisien says may have a disastrous effect in France, the Gaulois says that the speech shows that Britain is prepared to throw the whole weight of her authority in the direction of satisfying the German ambitions in Silesia. The Echo de Paris says: "France will not have her hand thus forced. We are our spokesmen to declare this clearly."

The Paris papers declare that Lord Aberdeen, the British Ambassador at Berlin, acting upon instructions from his Government, entered into an engagement with Germany without France's knowledge, intimating that as a recompense for Germany's acceptance of the Allied ultimatum, Dusseldorf, Duisburg and Ruhrort would be evacuated.

What actually happened is revealed in a message from Reuters Berlin correspondent which states that while the Allies are not yet decided as regards the cancellation of the latest sanctions, it is understood that the British Government holds the view that Germany's acceptance of the ultimatum favors the cancelling of the sanctions especially with regard to the Rhine Customs barrier and the occupation of Dusseldorf, Duisburg and Ruhrort.

An exchange of views between the Allies in that connection is proceeding.

BRIAND JUSTIFIES STAND

Paris, May 14.—M. Briand, in a statement to foreign journalists on the Upper Silesian problem, declared that the French Government had done its duty in Upper Silesia and protested against false reports to the contrary.

He mentioned that the Germans had insulted and arrested French officers, which would not be tolerated, and declared that Germany would provoke the most serious results if she interfered in Silesia. No single one of the Allies he said, would authorize the entry of German troops into Silesia.

The Premier admitted that the views of the British, French and Italian delegates on the Inter-Allied Commission in Upper Silesia were at variance, but he contended that France had not said that the whole of Upper Silesia should belong to Poland, but should be divided on the basis of the Treaty of Versailles and the result of the plebiscite in conformity with justice. He suggested that the Inter-Allied Commission should try and find a common proposition to lay before the Supreme Council.

M. Briand said that Mr. Lloyd George had interpreted the situation from his own point of view, but the British Prime Minister could not take the initiative alone in authorizing the advance of German troops into Upper Silesia. He added he was convinced that if Poland were definitely assured that plebiscite Silesia would be partitioned on a basis of common sense, in accordance with the plebiscite figures and calm would be restored. If on the contrary, the Allies wished to use Upper Silesia as a quid pro quo for their private purposes, Poland would revolt.

M. Briand, in conclusion, expressed regret at the present controversy because it led Germany to believe that the Allies were divided and thus would be likely to lead her into dangerous paths.

NEW GERMAN NOTE

Berlin, May 15.—In reply to M. Briand's note with regard to the "insurrection" in Upper Silesia, a German note has been handed to France, which declares that the Silesian trouble is due to Korfanty's organ, the Grenz Zeitung, published in Upper Silesia, which published a false report that the Allies had decided to hand over the greater part of Upper Silesia to Germany.

The publication of this false report, the note asserts, was intended as a signal for the Polish insurrection, which had been prepared for some time.

The note emphasizes the seriousness of the position of affairs in Upper Silesia and says that Korfanty is completely master of the situation.

The Inter-Allied Commission has no force at its disposal in the greater portion of Upper Silesia, the note states. It concludes by declaring that the serious accusations against Germany contained in the French note are absolutely unfounded, as General Leonard, the head of the Inter-Allied Commission in Upper Silesia, has already recognized.

Berlin, May 15.—Interviewed by the Germania, the German Chancellor, Dr. Wirth, declared that the German Government would do what it could to comply speedily with the Allied demands. He hoped that this week it would be possible to give instructions which would show the Allies that Germany was prepared to perform what was in her power. He hoped for speedy performances as regarded disarmament, and a complete detente of the international situation created by the German acceptance of the Allied ultimatum.

Referring to Upper Silesia, Dr. Wirth declared that he had agreed to the Allies deciding the question upon the basis of the Versailles Treaty, and in accordance with the strict application of the plebiscite.

FRANCH TO ACT

Paris, May 15.—According to the Petit Parisien, the French note in reply to the British note in regard to Upper Silesia declares that if Germany decided to intervene by force in Upper Silesia, France could not stand by passively.

The French newspapers all declare that France will consider armed German intervention in Upper Silesia a casus belli. It is stated that M. Briand has informed Berlin that France will take immediate steps to check any action which might send German forces against the Poles.

The Matin states that General Nollet on Thursday summoned the German Government to fulfill the conditions of the note to Germany of January 29 (embodying the decisions of the Paris Conference) by noon on the 20th inst. Failing compliance, French troops will enter the Ruhr district. Moreover, if Germany tries to intervene by force in Upper Silesia France will occupy the Ruhr.

London, May 15.—As the immediate result of the French Premier's outspoken utterance on the subject of Upper Silesia, Mr. Lloyd George has urged on M. Briand the advisability of calling the Supreme Council together as soon as possible.

Reuters's Paris correspondent states that the Note in which the above suggestion was made set forth the British point of view on the lines of Mr. Lloyd George's speech in Parliament, and suggested a meeting between the two Premiers at Boulogne.

M. Briand has replied, traversing the French claims, as outlined in the statement already cabled. He expressed the hope that the question would be settled without delay, and pointed out that M. Briand would have to meet Parliament, which will reassemble on Thursday next, before conferring with Mr. Lloyd George.

STILL DOUBTFUL

Paris, May 12.—While expressing themselves frankly as satisfied at Germany's acceptance of the Allied ultimatum, the papers, in view of past experience, remain somewhat

The Waring Company

"A Butterfly on the Wheel" was repeated last night by the Waring, the first presentation of this trenchant criticism of Divorce Court Practice having been played during the Company's opening week here.

A full house followed with the most intense interest the masterly cross-examination by "Sir Robert Pyffe" of the Butterfly—"Peggy Adamson"—(Miss Jeanette Sherwin).

The actress again rose to great heights of emotional power and gained the sympathy and enthusiastic applause of her audience.

The other members of the Company who were in the cast did excellently as usual, and as a fuller notice of this play appeared in our issue of May 7, we will not repeat our praises of their work.

Tonight that delightful comedy "His Excellency the Governor" will be staged.

Many playgoers will remember the amusing plot of this play and, no doubt, will like to renew their acquaintance with "H.E."

Those who have never seen it can safely rely upon a most entertaining evening for the comedy has never failed in its appeal, and it has been played wherever the English language is spoken.

French officials indicate that German intervention would be considered as an act of war and would be quickly followed by French military action in the first place by the French troops concentrated at the Rhine bridgeheads occupying the whole of the Ruhr district.

M. Briand plainly intimated to journalists on Saturday that Germany must keep her troops out of Silesia or otherwise be prepared to take the consequences. "Hands off Silesia" sums up the point of view of the French, who regard the Entente as gravely endangered.

LAMONT LAUDS FRANCE

Paris, May 15.—Le Matin publishes a statement by Mr. Thomas Lamont, who acted as Counsellor on Financial and economic matters to the American delegation at the Peace Conference, and who speaks in the name of the bankers, manufacturers and merchants of the United States. They all, he says, regard Germany's acceptance of the terms laid down at London as a triumph for France.

The Americans, like the British, he continues, have hailed with the greatest satisfaction the prompt acceptance by Germany of the London ultimatum. They feel that France has acted with a wise and praiseworthy moderation and that by pursuing this policy she will retain American sympathy and friendship in the future.

They bear witness that she has gained the cordial approbation of that industrial and commercial America whose co-operation she seeks for her own economic relief.

Mr. Lamont adds that Americans also regard with extreme satisfaction the progress made by France during the past few years toward a return to normal economic conditions, and are struck by the splendid results revealed in statistics regarding the devastated regions. Finally, the Americans, who have at heart the well-being of France, wish to congratulate her on the reparations arrangement arrived at, and to express a conviction that she will continue to manifest the same moral courage and common sense in the future as she has shown in the past.

Obituary

MR. EDWIN A. SLEE of the firm of Messrs. Mortimer Reid and Snee died at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Fearn's Sanatorium from an attack of heart failure. He was 43 years of age. Mr. Snee, who was a prominent figure in commercial circles, came to Shanghai from Bristol, England in 1909 and as a chartered accountant he took a position on his arrival with the China Mutual Insurance Company. In 1917 the partnership of the firm of Mortimer Reid and Snee was formed.

While on a voyage back to England last year Mr. Snee suffered an attack of influenza. Though he survived this he did not fully recover and he did not regain his health after his return to Shanghai in January. He was a member of the Country Club, the Shanghai Club, the Shanghai Race Club and the Shanghai Golf Club.

The funeral will be held at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon at Bubbling Well Cemetery.

WOMAN'S CLUB PARTY

The annual garden party which marks the end of each club year will be given by the American Woman's Club on May twenty-eighth. Committees to arrange the affair, which will take place at the Columbia Country Club are to be announced in a few days.

Ton Of Opium Is Seized Here

Two hauls of opium aggregating a total seizure of nearly a ton were made by local authorities during the week end. One lot of the stuff was discovered by Customs officials Sunday morning when three bags containing 120 pounds of the contraband commodity were discovered secreted in one of the life boats of the steamer Kwanglee when she arrived from Hongkong.

The biggest lot—nearly 1,000 pounds—was brought to light by the inspectors when they went through trunks aboard a steamer from Hankow. The trunks were supposed to be the personal property of certain Chinese military officials.

GEN. TSO IN KALGAN

Reuters's Pacific Service

Peking, May 14.—General Tso Fen, Commander-in-Chief of the troops on the Pankiang front, has returned to Kalgan to consult with General Chang Ching-huei as to the advisability of an offensive against the Russo-Mongol troops, who are gradually being withdrawn from the Pankiang front. This movement on the part of the enemy has been noticeable for the past few days.

BIG TRADE GROUP COMING TO EAST IN SEPTEMBER

San Francisco Business Men To Make Tour Of Oriental Ports

A commercial crusade from the United States which will probably bring to the East a party numbering over 200, is scheduled to leave San Francisco, under the auspices of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce on September 3 and will probably arrive in Shanghai on one of the new United States Shipping Board ships toward the end of that month.

The party will be made up largely of San Francisco business men and their wives and families and the tour, while unofficial, is being made with the idea of developing a closer social as well as commercial relationship between the Far East and the Western States.

The party is to be representative of all of the business interests of San Francisco and the West Coast, involving much the same sort of commercial contingent as recently visited Mexico from the States with such successful results.

"San Francisco," the Chamber of Commerce of that city comments in making announcement of the tour, "wants to meet and know personally the people of the countries it is now doing business with to the approximate value of half a billion dollars a year."

The contingent of commercial missionaries will occupy the entire first cabin accommodations of one of the new "535-type" liners of the United States Shipping Board, though it is not yet known here just which of the new vessels is to be patronized for the tour.

Ports which will be visited include Yokohama, Kobe, Shanghai, Manila, Saigon, Haifong, Hongkong, Canton, Singapore, Soerabaya, and other important cities.

It is hoped, while the party is in China, to take in other points than Shanghai, such as Tientsin, Hankow, Peking, etc. Also, in Java most of the important commercial centers.

The latest information regarding the departure of Shipping Board ships from San Francisco is to the effect that the "Empire State" will sail out of that port on July 23. Following it will come the "Lone Star State," the "Hoosier State," and the "Palmetto State," which of these will bring the delegation is not yet known here.

U.S. Silk Market Tone Much Firmer

(Reuter's Service)

New York, April 14.—The tone of the local raw silk market is strong, and prices are firm. Stocks of the better grades of Japan silks are scarce, and, although buyers readily offer premiums for certain kinds, they are experiencing much difficulty in meeting the demand of their customers. Stocks of Canton silks are also said to be limited.

The steady rise of lira exchange has greatly increased the lay-out cost of Italian silks and American purchasers in the Milan market are not so active. The advance in Italian silk has brought them to near the level of Japan sorts, so far as prices are concerned, and the Italian offerings are therefore not so attractive as they were a few weeks ago.

The mills in Paterson are reported to have enough silk on hand to keep the looms running for about three weeks, so they will soon be coming into the market for stocks. Silk manufacturers and wholesalers are quietly confident about future prospects, and they have good reason to be so, for silk fabrics of all kinds have never been so popular in the United States as they are today.

The silk goods market is steady, and the volume of business now being transacted is regarded as satisfactory. Crepe fabrics lead in popularity and wholesalers believe that the demand for this merchandise will continue throughout the summer.

Chang Tso-lin Would Oust All Russians

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, May 13.—General Chang Tso-lin has proposed to the Government the ultimate aim of ousting all Russian influence in North Manchuria. General Chang deems it his duty to station his troops south of the Great Wall and requests the Government to prohibit all rumors of ulterior motives. As a measure to preserve peace and order in Eastern Mongolia, Chang proposes that that section of the country should be annexed to the Three Eastern Provinces, and Fengtien troops should be stationed in Outer Mongolia after the lost cities there are recovered. Fengtien troops should also be stationed in Western Mongolia so as to strengthen the position of the Fengtien forces and to safeguard the Suiyuan and Kanu borders.

American Woman's Club

Those providing suppers for groups of five sailors at the picnic to be given by the American Woman's Club in Hongkong Park next Saturday afternoon are asked not to forget such culinary essentials as knives, forks, and spoons, since they are not to be furnished at the grounds. Hot coffee will be provided, but hostesses are asked to supply sugar and canned cream.

Approximately 400 sailors are expected, and the Navy Y.M.C.A. is planning a push-ball contest and other athletic events for their entertainment. In case of rain, the picnic will take the form of an indoor function at the Carlton Cafe. Music will be furnished by the ship's band.

On Thursday evening the Navy Y.M.C.A. will hold an entertainment on board the U.S.S. Haron, one of the chief features of which will be a sleight of hand exhibition by Mr. G. G. Nightingale.

The Sunday Concert

There was a large attendance at the Town Hall yesterday to hear the last interesting concert given by the Public Band. Miss El-Tour, Mezzo-soprano, was suddenly taken ill unfortunately, and the program had to be changed.

The first item played was the whole Peer Gynt Suite by Grieg followed by a brilliant rendering of Grieg Piano Concerto by Mr. I. Gillersberg. This was the most enjoyable item of the evening. Mr. Gillersberg's playing is certainly of the highest standard. He has an enormous technique and plays all the most difficult parts with perfect ease as was clearly demonstrated in the cadenzas of this beautiful work. Mr. Gillersberg was loudly applauded and gave an encore a delightful and clean rendering of the difficult Czardas of MacDowell.

The second half of the program was devoted to Beethoven. Mr. V. Strolido played the D Major Violin Concerto which was somewhat marred by his nervousness, and the concert concluded with the Egnont Overture. Mr. de Kryger, the conductor, is to be congratulated in the able manner in which he conducted the orchestra throughout the evening.

F. E. Republic's New Commander In Chief Only 25 Years Old

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, May 15.—It is learned from Chita that the New Commander-in-Chief of the Far Eastern Republic, Albert Lapin, communist, aged twenty five, who recently arrived from the West, is an ex-workman.

A report from Nikolsk-Ussurisk states that the local population has become alarmed as the result of rumors that partisans are advancing from Habarovsk against Grodekovo and Kappel's troops on the line Nikolsk-Rosdolnoe.

The plague epidemic is slightly diminishing in Vladivostok.

JAPAN'S PRINCE

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 14.—Mr. Lloyd George is spending the week-end at Chequers, where he will entertain a party to meet the Crown Prince of Japan.

London, May 14.—Accompanied by Prince Kanin and Count Chinda, the Crown Prince of Japan today paid an interesting visit to Oxford University and inspected the colleges and playing-fields, and witnessed the students at rowing practice. He was enthusiastically greeted by crowds. His Imperial Highness returned to London in the evening.

Local Aviators In Test Flight Over City On Sunday

LIEUT. E. E. FRESSON

Lieut. E. E. Fresson of the British Royal Air Force, piloting an Armstrong-Whitworth two seater, made a test flight over Shanghai on Sunday afternoon. The machine took off gracefully from the Hungjiao Road aerodrome shortly before 5 o'clock.

The plane hovered over the city and returned to the aerodrome at 5:30 o'clock, making a perfect landing within the limited space. The machine was the same one used by Major W. R. McRae a year ago when it crashed into one of the fences. Since then it had been completely overhauled under the supervision of Lieut. Fresson.

China To Take Shantung To League

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, May 14.—Japan, according to a Japanese official, is regretfully preparing to take the position of defendant before the next League of Nations session in the Tientsin case. Japan would much prefer to negotiate a settlement with China direct, but her foreign office is now convinced that China intends to bring the question without fail before the next session of the League—unless, indeed, there should be a radical change in China's diplomacy due to a new administration or cabinet in Peking.

It is believed by Japanese diplomats that the Chinese government would be glad to avail itself of the Japanese offer to negotiate directly, but that it dare not brave the popular fury which would be aroused by the students if it should attempt such a policy.

Medicos In China Must Pass Rigid Tests

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, May 13.—All medical practitioners in China must hereafter pass written and practical examinations before they will be allowed to follow their profession, it was said today. The Government has received many complaints of laxity on the part of physicians, particularly those of the old school. Many deaths have occurred and it is said the extreme methods used were responsible. Now the physicians will be required to pass a rigid written examination. In addition they will have to go to a Government hospital, diagnose cases under the supervision of leading physicians and prescribe treatment. At a recent test of this kind only one man out of thirty applicants was able to pass.

ROADBED COMPLETED

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 15.—The Technical Department of the Chefoo-Walshien Railway Bureau reports that the road bed has been completed, and asks for instructions regarding the laying of the rails. The Department points out that the railway is urgently needed to develop economic and industrial interests in that region.

Jap Radio Plant To Be Ready For Use By End Of This Year

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, May 13.—The wireless station which the Mitsui Company is erecting at Huangchiao, six miles to the East of Peking along the Peking-Tungchow Railway, for the Ministry of the Navy is being rapidly pushed forward to completion and will be ready for use by the end of this year if no unforeseen accidents occur. The six masts of this 500 kilowatt station are practically ready for use, and most of the electrical equipment is on the ground ready to be installed.

Of the equipment that has not yet reached the Huangchiao plant the boilers have passed the Customs at Tientsin and are now on their way to Peking, while the 500 kilowatt alternator, the first of its kind ever manufactured, is at present being tested in Japan. These tests are being conducted in the presence of representatives of the Chinese Ministry of the Navy, who went to Japan for that purpose three weeks ago. Nothing is known here as to their outcome, but if they prove satisfactory nothing can prevent the Mitsui plant from reaching completion before the year is out.

The danger, from the viewpoint of the Mitsui Company, is that the alternator may not prove a success, and many experts regard an alternator of as high power as 500 kilowatts as a risky experiment. Other high power plants have hitherto generated their power by using relays of low power alternators, and this practice is still regarded as the best in competent wireless circles.

Chinese Policemen And Soldiers Fight

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Harbin, May 11.—The following incident has created considerable alarm here. Yesterday near the bridge joining the New Town with Kiodagoo a Chinese policeman attempted to arrest a Chinese soldier for "outrageous behaviour." In response to the soldier's call for help, over fifty armed soldiers rushed to his rescue when a detachment of policemen appeared on the scene. The soldiers shot a police sergeant and injured two of his men. A regular fight then ensued between the soldiers and policemen which continued for some time and terribly scared the unfortunate inhabitants, whose houses were used as shelters by the combatants.

Considerable comment has also been caused by another episode in which the Chinese police were involved. While walking on the Bolahai Prospect, Captain Pannau, the French representative on the Inter-Allied Technical Board, was roughly pushed by a member of a Chinese police patrol whom the captain had accidentally jostled. Others of the policemen also threatened assault. (It should be noted that the Chinese usually march their police patrols and squads of soldiers on the sidewalk instead of the street.) Captain Pannau made complaint to the Doyen and the following day the patrol and officer in charge made public apology to the captain.

HEAD OF T.K.K. ENTERTAINS ON NEW TAIYO MARU

Toyo Kisen Kaisha Liner, Formerly Cap Finisterre, Is Luxurious Steamer

With a dining-salon that would do credit to a New York hotel, a lounge room with a playing fountain at one end, and other accommodations that make the traveler forget that he has left Fifth Avenue, the new T. K. K. liner, Taiyo Maru, deserves to rank as one of the most luxurious vessels on the Pacific. This was the verdict of about 200 Shanghai residents who dined aboard the palatial liner Sunday night as guests of Mr. Soichiro Asano, president of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha.

Before dinner was served, the guests were given an opportunity to explore every part of the vessel, from its sun-deck, looking down on the white-tiled swimming-tank, to the galley, where an enormous array of shining pots and pans advertised the preparation of dinner. A children's nursery, a dark-room for camera enthusiasts, a wicker furnished and palm decorated lounge known as the Winter Garden, a salon for ladies, and staterooms equipped with service telephones are some of the features prepared for the comfort of the passengers.

Two of the attractions that appealed most to the visitors were the wide decks adapted to dancing, promenading, and sports; and the dining-salon, which is beautifully illuminated by indirect lighting and supported by fluted columns. The Taiyo Maru, which was allocated to Japan after the war, formerly plied the Hamburg-South American run under the name of the Cap Finisterre. Its antecedents are indicated by the signs in German and Spanish, to which English has recently been added. The vessel which was built in Hamburg in 1911, is 580 feet in length and has a gross tonnage of 14,500. There are eight decks, six of which are available for the use of passengers. One of the features of the Taiyo Maru is the comfort afforded to second class passengers, their dining-room and lounge being equal in appointments to the first-class accommodations in many smaller vessels.

At the conclusion of the dinner Sunday night, Mr. Asano declared that though he had never before visited Shanghai, he had long looked forward to doing so and that he hoped to give the people of this port the best possible service. The Taiyo Maru was dispatched for Manila yesterday afternoon, and is scheduled to arrive here on May twenty-eighth for its first voyage to America under the flag of the Rising Sun.

"Canton Recognition Silly" Say Japanese

(China Press Correspondence) Peking, May 13.—Japan has made no denial of the statement contained in a letter to the Peking Government from Chinese citizens in Japan, to the effect that Japan will recognize the Canton Government, because the idea is probably considered too silly to deny, it was said at the Japanese legation today.

It was pointed out that such a move would be entirely at odds with the well known Japanese policy. While no information had been received from the Foreign Office in Tokyo, the Legation believed that the report in the latter was entirely without foundation. The Chinese residents in their letter to the Central Government said that Japan planned to use the split between the North and South as an argument against the return of Shantung to China.

identified by a man claiming to be the victim's brother. He stated to the Chinese authorities that his brother had been missing since the first part of the month and that letters had been received stating that he was held for ransom. A Chinese named Li offered to disclose the whereabouts of the missing man for $100, but stopped negotiations when offered $10. The authorities have ordered this man's arrest.

PRESIDENTIAL MANDATE

(China Press Correspondence) Peking, May 14.—Taking cognizance of the continued illness of the Civil governor of Kiangsi Chao Tsung-fan, the President has issued a mandate placing the duties of administration for the time being upon Yang Ching-chun, Chief of Administration.

F. Eastern Railway Stabilising Factor

(China Press Correspondence) Peking, May 13.—The Chinese Eastern Railway is steadily assuming a position of prime importance in the effort to get the entire Far East back to a sound commercial status and dispatches from Russia and from the railway zone indicate that the several contending elements are convinced that the road should be allowed to function regardless of any military or political situations that may arise.

If the road can be sufficiently equipped to handle the freight now piled up at the stations and the river wharves along the line, they believe that the industrial troubles which have caused most of the dissension will be nearer settled.

Martial Law In U.S. Coal Fields

(Reuter's Service) Washington, May 15.—President Harding has signed a proclamation declaring martial law in West Virginia and the Kentucky coal-fields, where half a dozen men have been shot dead in the course of strike riots. The promulgation of the proclamation is subject to the discretion of Secretary of War Weeks, who is awaiting further information.

Australians Pile Up Healthy Total

(Reuter's Service) London, May 14.—Lovely weather favored the opening day of the Australians' match at Portmouth today. The attendance, which numbered 5,000, included a very fashionable element, and the officers of the Japanese warships were among those present.

The Australians batted first on a pitch which was only in fair condition, and had amassed the respectable total of 345 for five wickets before close of play.

Collins contributed 70 and Macartney a dashing 51, making 40 of them by boundary hits, while Bardley was top scorer with 132, which included 11 fours.

Hodges, P. Chatom and M. G. Brawley.

It is expected that the Shanghai team will put up a good fight against the London men and the total score will be over 980 points, an average of 98 points per man.

New Orleans Nine Pulls Surprise By Victory; Civilians Hit Ball Hard him in the seventh came from the bunching of a walk, a sacrifice and three hits.

Maloney and Crow were the day's heavy hitters, the former rapping out a homer (with none on), a double and two singles. Crow batted 750, with three hits out of four times at bat. Sperry connected for two out of three. Fuller entered the game with a split hand, and in the ninth blood began to flow. He also suffered the loss of several square inches of hide from near his eye, but he stayed in the game until it was won.

12.—The Peking-Suiyuan Railway Opens Its Fengcheng Branch

(China Press Correspondence)
Peking, May 14.—The Peking-Suiyuan railway has now announced that the extension from Fengcheng to Suiyuan is entirely open to both passenger and freight traffic.

A representative of the CHINA PRESS, who came down from Suiyuan on one of the first trains to be run from that terminal, relates some of the hardships of the new route, as well as the admirable energy and pluck of the Chinese railway officials in opening it on time and overcoming the innumerable difficulties of operation of the first few days.

The Peking-Suiyuan line is the one triumph of Chinese railway engineering, and was constructed and is operated entirely by Chinese railwaymen. The final section of the extension from Table Mountain was rushed through this spring in order to be on time, and the various construction sections were connected up without being aligned. The last few hundred yards of track into Suiyuan were laid on the level valley floor, without ballast.

However, the first train ran on time, on May 1. It did not have such good luck running out again, and, in fact, on the first three days of operation, there were derailments, without, however, any damage.

No stations on this last section have yet been completed, and the stops were made in open country or under city walls.

ONO'S MISSION

Peking Offering Prizes For Relics
(China Press Correspondence)
Peking, May 14.—The Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce has offered prizes ranging from $10 to $50 for relics that may be used in the National Museum. The Ministry wants bones of animals and birds that will tend to throw new light on the early animal life of Asia; early paintings, pottery and other curios that may be unearthed in different parts of the country. If the relics are good the Government believes the finder will be better paid in these prizes than they will if the articles are sold to private collectors.

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA
Fletcher's Castoria is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations. It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded. It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots for a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have all the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties; especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over 30 years has proven its worth. Try it.

Save the Babies.
Infantry mortality is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one half before they are fifteen! We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. To avoid any possibility of giving your child opiates, or narcotics of any kind, keep Fletcher's Castoria in the house, and Save the Babies.

LOWER ACREAGE LIKELY TO KEEP COTTON PRICES UP

Southern Farmers Responding To Pleas To Curtail Production

(Reuter's Service)

New York, April 22.—The cotton market this week has been trying to discount two factors, viz., the probable acreage reduction and the extent to which Government aid will affect exports. It seems to be the general opinion that if the South cuts its area 25 to 35 percent, according to present promises, it will perhaps serve to offset the large hold-over, and give the world a chance to absorb the surplus without materially lowering prices from their present levels.

The imperative need of a greatly reduced acreage this year has been driven into the minds of farmers as never before by means of the various farmers' organizations. Moreover, the banks are refusing to loan money unless a greatly diversified program can be shown by the planter, and many of them refuse to loan any money at all—some because they are financially impoverished themselves. Six of the largest banks in the Mississippi Delta have notified customers that no loans will be made after July 1, any part of which is to be used in buying foodstuffs. Customers are warned that those who do not grow sufficient feed for use on their plantations will have to borrow elsewhere.

Last year these banks loaned over a million dollars to customers to buy feed of various kinds that the banks insist shall be grown on their own farms. All this tends to show that the estimates of this year's prospective acreage cut, if based on previous performances, may be wide of the mark. It is possible, however, that, even with a smaller acreage, if we have another season like the last one, the yield may be larger than expected.

The trade, therefore, is pretty well mixed on the acreage situation, which explains the absence of outside interest. An official of the Georgia State Agricultural Department thinks the acreage reduction in that State will be 40 percent. Recent letters received from Texas have forecasted a decrease of fully 25 percent, because they sold their crop earlier in the season, and received correspondingly higher prices for it than did the farmers of the central and eastern belts, the Texas planters naturally have less inducement to reduce than those in the sections of the belt mentioned.

Southern cotton-yarn mills are said to be operating only at an average of 20 percent capacity. Stocks of yarn are large, both at the mills and in warehouses in Philadelphia, and consumers, knowing this, buy only from hand to mouth. At Fall River curtailment continues to be heavy in the cotton industry, and is expected by many to continue far into the month of May.

POLYNESIA PUZZLE SOLVED IN ALASKA

Hawaiian Historical Society
Hears Totems There May Tell Origin Of Race

Honolulu, T. H., Feb. 6.—Is the origin of the Polynesian races to be read from the totem poles of the Indians of Alaska?

That is a question for the Hawaiian Historical Society to ponder. There have been many shreds of evidence to prove the theory that there was a time when the mainland of South America was connected with the Hawaiian Islands and with Australia, but at a recent meeting of the Hawaiian Historical Society a paper read by W. D. Westervelt suggested to the minds of many that the Hawaiians, the Bushmen of Australia and the Alaska Indians came from a common root in South America.

The question has been touched upon several times in this correspondence, as far as the relationship between the Australians, the South Sea Islanders and a race on the mainland of South America is concerned. But all the previous data, especially that brought out by the researches of the Mormons of Australia and of Hawaii, has pointed only to interrelationship between the west coast of South America, these islands here and Australia. Mr. Westervelt's paper brings in the Alaskan Indians as a possible offshoot of the same stem.

The dream of the romanticists is that at one time there was a land connection between South America, Hawaii, the Samoan and other South Sea Islands and Australia, which like the fabled Atlantis of the East, disappeared beneath the waves, leaving only its highest mountain tops as islands to dot the great expanse of water. In the Mormon researches, there was a reference to a hegira to the north, but that theory only extended as far as California. Making California's terminus was a mere matter of speculation, yet Mr. Westervelt's studies make it appear quite possible that the emigrants did not stop there, but went on and on until increasing cold made maintenance of life impossible.

Mr. Westervelt said, in his paper, that he had gone among the Indians and found among them the same conception of supernatural powers as among the native Hawaiians. He found the basis of these beliefs in the totem poles, giving tribal and family histories, and found that the first move to so record the history of the race was made by strangers who were washed ashore in canoes.

(Reuter's Pacific Service)
Peking, May 13.—According to the Tsin Jih Pao, General Annenkov has captured Fushanmia and intends to attack Chenhsi. The paper says he has secured arms and ammunition through the subjects of a power friendly to China. These supplies were transported through Subaitu, on the Mongolian frontier. The Central Government has now telegraphed to the Tsuchun of Sinkiang to send sufficient forces to expel Annenkov and his men from Chinese territory.

Fire At Gas Works

There was considerable excitement yesterday morning when an alarm of fire was turned in from the Shanghai Gas Works at about 10:45 o'clock. A prompt response by the Fire Department, however, cut down a blaze which threatened serious proportions. The fire broke out in one of the tar boilers and created a dense smoke, which was seen from many parts of the Settlement. There was another alarm also yesterday morning following an outbreak near the corner of Henan Road and the Kin Loong Ka. The blaze was of little consequence and was easily extinguished.

Electrical Strikers In Osaka Boisterous

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, May 16.—The discharged electric workers here are becoming surly and unruly. On Saturday night an indignation meeting was held, whereat a young woman—the wife of one of the workers—denounced the company's actions. Her harangue was greeted with tremendous applause.

Finally the meeting became so riotous that the police undertook to disperse the crowd, who passed into the streets in procession, but again encountered the police. A fight ensued, wherein a number of both police and demonstrators were injured.

On Sunday morning, the laborers, assisted by the Yuaikai Union, held processions and meetings throughout the day and into the night, when they again encountered the police, who arrested their leader, Sato, the head of the Osaka Yuaikai. The laborers, who outnumbered the police, thereupon became infuriated and the police were forced to release Sato. All the demonstrators then dispersed, but their temper is surly, and further trouble is feared.

CHARGE JAPANESE TRIED TO CASH BAD RACE TICKET

Accused Arrested Saturday
At Kiangwan To Be Given
Consular Hearing

It is expected that a preliminary hearing will be held this morning by Japanese Consular authorities in the case of a Japanese who was arrested at the Kiangwan race course on Saturday on the charge that he had attempted to cash a bogus ticket for first prize in the eighth race.

The Japanese is said to have presented a ticket that apparently bore the number 35 after first prize for this number had been paid out. It was recognized that ticket 35 had been sold as one of a thorough ticket series to a foreigner, so the paying shroff detained the Japanese at the ticket window until a police officer could be summoned. The bogus ticket, it is said, originally was numbered 351, the final numeral having been cleverly erased.

Movement Afoot To Oust Honan General

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 14.—General Chow Ti, the Tsuchun of Honan, is doing everything in his power to obtain the withdrawal from Honan of General Feng Yu-hsiang, who is stationed at Chumation. The Provincial Assembly, at the instigation of the Tsuchun, has telegraphed to Peking, requesting the removal of General Feng on various grounds, including a charge of illegally collecting money from the people at Hsichow.

The three military leaders now in Peking are endeavoring to find a way of settling the dispute between Generals Chow and Feng Yu-hsiang, as they fear that there will be further conflict in Honan unless some compromise is reached.

Ningpo Association Opens New Building On Lloyd Road

General rejoicing prevailed among the Ningpo residents in Shanghai Sunday when their new association building on Lloyd Road was formally dedicated as a social center and meeting place for all Ningpo residents in Shanghai. Over 20,000 guests were entertained during the day. In spite of the disagreeable weather, yesterday, the second of the three-day celebration, saw over 10,000 people thronging the new premises. All Ningpo firms and stores were belaguered in observation of the occasion.

After an inspection of the building, which is a five-storyed structure of reinforced concrete, erected at a cost over $100,000, the dedication program was held in the morning in the general assembly hall.

Among those present were Major-General Ho Fung-lin, the Defense Commissioner; Taoyin Wang Keng-shun, Magistrate; Shen Pao-chang and Chen Chishan; Foreign Commissioner C. P. Hsu and his secretary, Mr. S. K. Chen, Mr. Chung Meng-yew, Mr. Chow Wan-pang of the Telegraph Administration, Messrs. H. Y. Moh, Sung Han-chang, S. K. Tso, S. K. Loh and representatives of more than 100 local organizations.

Mr. Chien Yung-tao, representing Chu Pao-san, head of the construction committee, read a report on the building work. Yeh Wei-chung, representing the Provisions Guild, spoke of the splendid co-operative spirit of the Ningpo residents in Shanghai, and Mr. Yue Chung-chow secretary of the association, thanked the guests on behalf of the organization.

Greetings sent by several hundred organizations and officials and members of the gentry were read. Mr. Chang Zan-san, president of the association and Mr. Chen Liang-yu, vice-president, also spoke.

Programs of entertainment were given in the afternoon and in the evening and were continued yesterday. There will be reception and entertainment for guests today at 2 p.m. and 3 p.m.

How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental peristitis, osteo-peristitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion there are settled on the teeth, some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possesses a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr. KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:—

- (1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
- (2) Filling with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
- (3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

SOMETHING PEPPY AT THE ISIS THEATRE

Commencing Friday, May 20th

Joseph M. Schenk

PRESENTS

The Sweetest Vamp on the Screen

CONSTANCE TALMADGE

In a John Emerson-Anita Loos production

"A Temperamental Wife"

SIX PARTS A PEPPY PLAY ABOUT WIVES AND STENOGRAPHS SIX PARTS

"A Temperamental Wife"

is a sad, sweet story of a maid who would wed a man who would gaze upon no feminine charms but her own. She sallies forth into the wide world in pursuit of him, finds him, captures him and then—oh then! she begins to find out things about men, the wretches! and her own man in particular.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE

is the second champion in the Star Popularity Contest recently held in America. You will no doubt remember her in her last screen success at the Isis "The Virtuous Vamp"

IS YOUR WIFE SUSPICIOUS OF YOUR STENOGRAPHER?

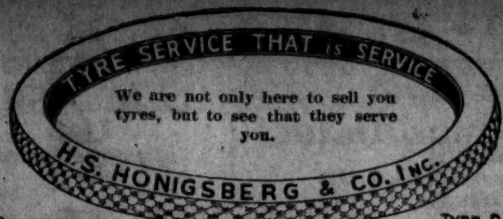

Of course she's foolish! Just to prove it bring her to see "A Temperamental Wife" Peppy? You bet! B t it will do the wife good.

CHESTERTON SAYS IRISH LOST ON SIR PHILIP GIBBS

Novelist Surprised At Sinn Fein Attack, As Sir Philip Opposes British Policy

LIKES AMERICAN CITIES

Travelled As Racer Would In Box Car, But Sees Considerable To Admire

New York, March 27.—Perhaps the liveliest picture in the American part of G. K. Chesterton's memory is that of the astronomer he met in Oklahoma City, from which farthest point in his rambles the British observer returned to New York yesterday.

"A man with stars and moons on his coat, quite unusually plastered with medals, came up to me," said Mr. Chesterton, "and told me he was an astronomer. I thought it quite splendid for a scientist to be walking about thus decorated with the symbols of his office. He also told me that he and the Mayor looked after the city, and flashed before my eyes a gleaming shield which I took to be the badge of a detective. He was admirable. I said to him 'If I commit a murder I'll let you know.' 'Oh, no,' he replied, 'we never expect those things from members of the Upper Ten.' What a fascinating combination—detective and astronomer."

Mr. Chesterton has revolved so swiftly and in such a generous orbit on his lecture tour that he is not quite certain where he has been. He is sure that he visited Chicago, Detroit, Madison, Wis., and Oklahoma City and that Americans everywhere received him most kindly and, indeed, as a rule followed his talks with better comprehension than some of his English audiences have done.

"Oklahoma," he said, "is unlike anything I had seen before. There was so much excitement about everything being recent. It was interesting and agreeable to find people who were proud of having lived in a community only three minutes. I was told of a great number of things that can be controlled by merely passing a law. If you don't like to have anybody whistling outside your gate you just pass a law that people who whistle outside your gate shall be hanged. The simplicity of this I found really delightful."

Of his trip and American impressions generally he had this to say: "A map of my wanderings would be like a complicated labyrinth. Before I set forth the distances sounded like those between fixed stars, but I became accustomed to things which a short time ago I should have regarded as impossible. In England, Chicago seems to be regarded as rather unattractive, but to me it was most interesting, especially the boulevard along the lake, and naturally I was pleased to fall in with a club in Chicago called the Mediaevalists."

He was asked if he noted anything wrong with America. "Well," he said, "nothing except what is wrong of industrial society generally. If I were to tell just what I think of Pittsburgh, which perhaps would not be an unsullied flood of praise, it would be only what I also think about our own Birmingham. But perhaps Oklahoma will not become too Pittsburghian."

Mrs. Chesterton travelled with her husband. He regards as singular, although interesting the custom, noted in Madison and other places, of the club women of the city taking his wife off some place while the men took him to another. On the train—whose Pullman cars he found not at all uncomfortable—he read many American magazines. He deems them and American short stories to be on a relatively higher level than American novels, compared with the levels of English magazines and novels. He has read one-half of "Main Street" and laments its "regrettable lack of murders." He has, he said, "reviewed H. G. Wells's history several times, and I have even read it."

"But I'm ashamed to say," Mr. Chesterton added, "that I know far too little about books. I'm afraid my reading is passed between controversy and crime."

"What is the chief paradox in the American character?" an interviewer popped at him.

"No doubt," he answered, after only a brief consultation with his cigar, "there are a great many, but, of course, I think the greatest is that democracy has got tied to industrialism, which is the most undemocratic thing the world ever saw. How curious that at a country that started with the Declaration of Independence should be saddled with industrialism. The writers of the Declaration were essentially agricultural."

"Jefferson I think of as something like an English squire. It is horrible irony that at a time when we are trying in the ideal sense to believe that all men are equal citizens we are also entangled in this complicated industrialism, which seems to me to strangle democracy. I should say that the peasant part of American democracy is successful. The small landholders are the great make-weights that carry this country along. It left to the large industrial cities this country would be as badly off as England, where the same system exists, and we haven't even a crude and half-developed peasantry."

"I was struck not only by the fact," he went on, "that there is a great deal of sympathy in America for the Irish, but the fact that there is also a great deal of feeling against the Irish. The English people seem to think that the Irish who have gone to America are pathetic exiles in America, whereas they are really running Tammany Hall. The Americans know that the Irish can really get something done, for they see great things of them operating in politics and a good many of them getting rich. It was surprising, by the way, that the Irish got after Sir Philip Gibbs when he lectured in New York. I thought it was well known that Philip Gibbs had no sympathy with the British policy toward Ireland. Perhaps it was his title that offended."

"Did you have any opportunity to observe the working of prohibition?" was another question.

"I had considerable opportunity to observe its not working, but have had nothing to say in criticism either way. I'm against prohibition on principle, but do not wish to behave in your country as Mr. Pussfoot Johnson behaved in mine."

Mr. Chesterton said he felt he had really seen little of the people among whom he moved to keep his lecture dates.

"I felt," he remarked, "like a race horse being hauled about in a box car, if I may be permitted to compare myself with so useful and elegant an animal."

The British and French Disagree

IN the difficult situation created in Upper Silesia by the adventure of the Polish insurgent, Korfanty, Great Britain, according to Premier Lloyd George, stands for British fair-play. And according to Premier Briand, France stands for justice. Between fair-play and justice there should not be a very wide chasm, but the fact is that on the question of Polish rights in Upper Silesia the British and French are as far apart as the two poles.

The British in this matter take the German viewpoint in interpreting the Treaty of Peace. The French take the Polish side. The treaty provided for a plebiscite and this was conducted last March. The Germans won by a vote of 716,000 to 471,000. But in the rich coal and iron district around Tarnowitz the Polish vote was very heavy and that section was carried by Poland.

We do not know if the French contend that every commune in Upper Silesia that was carried by Poland should belong to Poland, with boundary marks, frontier customs stations and guards, but we do not think that that is their claim. We think rather, that the French believe that the Poles having carried over 400 communes in the Tarnowitz district as against 92 for the Germans, should have that district. The main point to hold in mind is that this district is the richest in the country, and the Germans having won in the total vote lay claim to it along with the rest of Upper Silesia. They say that it is impossible to decide the matter any other way; that if you give one commune to one country and the next to the other country, you will be giving nothing to either because the whole country would become demoralised.

Most unfortunate of all is the split between Great Britain and France on this question. "It is unfair to disarm Germany and not permit her troops to participate in restoring order," said Mr. Lloyd George. But the word from France is that if the Germans attempt to use troops in Upper Silesia the French will interfere by seizing Germany's other big coal district—the Ruhr Basin.

France is determined to create a powerful and friendly Poland on the other side of Germany, to serve both as a buffer against Russia and as a possible weapon against Germany. That has been French policy ever since Armistice days. Lloyd George, on the other hand, thinks that the Poles are very lucky to have anything at all and that Poland should be the last country in the world to complain about the Treaty of

Delusions Of Modern Witchcraft

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

Famous Astronomer and Writer of Subjects of Scientific Interest

Once in a while a young woman—almost invariably they reveal the marks of good education and refinement of manner—comes to me with a story of "black magic" or witchcraft, or mysterious persecution, and begs for advice and aid. It is useless for me to protest that I am not an expert in psychology, or a mind healer, or a psychical experimenter, and that I do not believe in black magic, or witchcraft, or mysterious persecution.

In spite of all that I am compelled, out of simple humanity, to listen to plaints that are usually pathetic and sometimes heartrending. Not on any account would I adopt the ready explanation or such cases that alienists would very likely offer without a moment's hesitation and which is summed up in one all-embracing and condemning word—"crazy."

Living as we all do, on the border line between the known and the unknown, the certain and the uncertain—a line so devious that it includes in one person's mind, in the form of accepted and familiar facts, things that are unexplained, and apparently inexplicable, mysteries to his neighbor's mind—we ought to be exceedingly chary of calling anybody crazy simply on account of a difference of mental training and outlook.

Who has not, or has not had, delusions? Was the New England judge who believed in witchcraft crazy? And were the hard-headed Massachusetts Bible readers who sent poor old women to the gallows as witches all crazy? Nobody would think of applying such a word to them. They were not crazy, but they were ignorant and, through their ignorance, deluded.

That is the harshest term that I would apply to the persons of whom I began speaking, and I would not apply it in contempt, either. Those of us who think ourselves the wisest may be but by a hair's breadth less ignorant. But that is no reason for not making logical use of such knowledge as we have acquired and whose truth we have verified.

I do not doubt that there are thousands upon thousands who believe in magic and sorcery today. I have too frequently had the evidence presented to me to doubt that. But the most pitiful thing about it is that these believers suffer, often very bitterly, in consequence of their belief. They try to cast off the blight, but cannot because their attempted reasoning against it is not based upon sufficient knowledge, and is not free.

If they could only be made to see and know that the "magic" is all in themselves, then they could throw off the delusion and its evil effects. I am thinking of a young woman who a few days ago begged for aid to counteract a "spell" that a "witch" had cast upon her, and which she was convinced affected her mind and caused her great physical sufferings. She herself suggested that it might be of the nature of hypnosis, not imagining how close that idea brought her to a solution of her trouble.

If one person could "cast a spell" upon another it would necessarily be through some form of hypnotic suggestion. But hypnosis is no magic, and the hypnotic state is not brought on by any mysterious force emanating from another person. It is a nervous effect resulting from reaction to external influence, which, in their nature, are perfectly normal phenomena. Studied motions, changes of light and color, soothing or unexpected sounds, strange words, imposing or startling, or suggestive gestures and attitudes, surprise, terror, anxiety—all these things, known to practitioners of the "black art" for thousands of years, are at the basis of the processes by which modern hypnotists produce their effects.

They set the chain of internal reaction at work by absolutely normal means, and the apparently magical effects then work themselves out. It is sufficient to remember that people who have frequently been hypnotised more and more readily fall into that state, and that they may require a habit of self-hypnosis.

If the victim of the supposed spell once settles upon the conviction that it is a magic power, and not the state of her own nerves, that has gripped her, she will inevitably hypnotise herself with regard to the subject of her delusion and thus her mind will be blinded exactly on the side where, for her good and her deliverance, it ought to be most open.

But in the attempt to throw off such delusions it is worse than useless to resort to counter influences of a professionally magic quality. How far genuine hypnotic processes at the hands

WE NEEDN'T WORRY

The population of the world at the present time is about 1,650,000,000. It has been estimated that the earth can maintain a population of 6,000,000,000, a total which will be reached in the year 2,100 at the present rate of increase.

THE BARBER HEATEN

A man in a barber's chair had a big clasp on his watch chain.
"Bear's claw, sir?" asked the barber.
"Yes."
"I suppose you killed it yourself, sir?"
"Yes."
"Out in foreign parts, sir?"
"Yes."
"How many shots did you take to kill him?"
"None."
"My goodness! Did you kill him with a knife?"
"No."
"Heavens! With your bare hand, sir?"
"No! I talked the bear to death," said the man in the chair.

CUCKOO!

A silly cuckoo was absolutely taken in by the two fine days on Saturday and Sunday, and started to awaken the inhabitants round and about Jessfield. By the way, it is the male Cuckoo that sings, although the bird is so often called "she" by the majority of us.

"The cuckoo comes in April, Sings his song in May, Whistles a tune till the end of June, In July he flies away."

In the Midlands (England) an old folk-song (it was written in 1642) has reference to the belief that the cuckoo steals the eggs from other birds' nests, and that the reason why her voice becomes hoarse in July is that the nesting season is over, and there are no eggs to steal.

"The cuckoo is a merrie bird, he singeth as he flies"; He bringeth good tidings, and telleth no lies. He sucks other birds' eggs to make his voice clear, And then he sings 'Cuckoo!' Three months in the year."

GETTING HIS OWN BACK

The cricket season is here and it reminds one of a story which the Bishop of Winchester (Dr. Talbot) often told.

In his early days he was very enthusiastic over cricket, and one afternoon, in a village match, he found himself opposed to a somewhat erratic bowler.

After the bowler had sent down a wide, Dr. Talbot remarked:

"Will you kindly keep the ball in the parish?" The bowler smiled, and to prove that he had taken the advice to heart, promptly displaced the middle stumps with the next ball.

"I think," said the bowler, getting his own back, "That's hit the diocese, hasn't it?"

A COLOR PROBLEM

A recent consular report warns merchants who are shipping goods to China against packing them in green paper. Green is a color much disliked in China, for it is thought to be unlucky.

White and blue wrappings are equally to be avoided, for in China they are the mourning of absolutely trustworthy, expert and conscientious operators might aid I cannot pretend to say. At any rate one can help oneself by change of both mental and bodily habits. Banishing a delusion is getting rid of or quitting a false point of view. A new diet, a new amusement, or occupation, or new scenes, and new companions may have a better effect than any reasoning. Marriage is a great banisher of delusions.

colors. The report points out that English pins which were packed in blue paper proved to be unsaleable, while much inferior German pins put up in red paper were snapped up at once.

Red is the color of good fortune among the Chinese. Brown is liked, if it possesses a reddish shade; so are the brighter tints of pink. Carpets and curtain should possess a yellow ground, which is an extremely popular color in both China and Korea as well as Japan. Purple, too, is liked, and gold is the imperial color.

While yellow is so popular in China, it is by no means wise to use it in India. There yellow, or rather saffron, is the color of the robes of the Sadhu caste of Hindus, who are notorious sedition mongers.

Dressed in flowing saffron robes, a number of mendicants of this Sadhu caste have been recently moving all over India, preaching sedition. At Dinapur two of these men were caught in a barrack room, preaching mutiny to the native troops, and were promptly arrested. Upon them were found seditious letters written upon silk of the same color as their garments.

The Sadhu yellow is supposed to represent the combined color of sun and sky, and in India is as much the color of rebellion as the red flag in Europe.

The Nile, by which Cairo stands, is second in length of all the rivers of the globe, only falling short of the Mississippi River, which latter is 4,220 miles long.

Few problems in geographical research exercised for so long a period so potent an influence over the imaginations of man as that of the origin of the Nile.

The British-American explorer, Henry Morton Stanley (1840-1904), solved the riddle of the Nile in 1888, at last seeing the "Mountains of the Moon" in all their glory of snow and ice, discovering Lake Albert Edward Nyanza and tracing the river which connects it with the Albert Nyanza.

More Truth Than Poetry

Faith On Crutches

BY S. E. KISER

"My chance will come some day," he said.

"The one for which I've wished and waited;

I hope that I'll not be in bed Or old and incapacitated

When smiling Fortune comes along To hand me fame or golden treasure—

I hope I'll still be young and strong And have a longing still for pleasure.

"My chance will come, I have no doubt;

It's written in the stars, I know it.

Moreover, it is pointed out in a noble meter by the poet.

I've waited long, but I can wait. Still longer, if the fates so will it;

I claim a faith so strong, so great, That disappointment cannot kill it.

"I may be growing bald and gray, My trousers are a little tattered,

But I shall have my chance some day, My cheering hope remains unshattered.

To every man and every nation There comes a special time to act;

Some day I'll have my compensation In being witness to the fact."

A fateful morning came, at last, When he could sit and wait no longer;

They made the lid above him fast— His faith could hardly have been stronger.

For years before the debt he owed Was paid, as Fate and Nature framed it,

His chance was waiting up the road Where easily he might have claimed it.

The Perils Of Fatness

Do you weigh more than you did at thirty? Then you are too fat, says an editorial writer in the Journal of the American Medical Association. That is "the period of full maturity," and the proportions that are normal then should be maintained through life. Life-insurance experts now shake their heads at excess of fat, and consider that it renders the possessor liable to all sorts of ills. Diabetes is one of the chief of these, we are told by the paper above named. What is called "conjugal diabetes," where husband and wife come down with the malady together, is no mytery, according to this view, since the victims have been sharing the same dinners and presumably have both over-eaten. Physicians have long noted the liability of the well-to-do to this disease; and the reason is now obvious. Says the editor:

"The increment of body weight which is so commonly observed, particularly among the well-to-do classes, toward middle life is often looked on as a natural or physiologic gain which is to be expected after the age of forty. As a rule it causes little concern to those who are thus adding to their size, unless the gains are of sufficient magnitude to produce discomfort in certain types of activity or to occasion disfigurement from the standpoint of prevailing views on the human physique."

"Nevertheless, the life-insurance companies have long insisted, on the basis of the elaborate statistical data which they have collected, that overweight is a physiologic liability rather than an asset. Actuarial experience shows that an increase in weight as age advances is not a sign of ideal conditions for health and efficiency. It is, in fact, deduced that the admitted handicap of gain in weight with advancing years should be combated. We should endeavor, a recent writer states, to keep our weight at approximately the average weight for the age of thirty, the period of full maturity, as experience shows that those so proportioned exhibit the most favorable mortality."

"What are the burdens or ones-ity and why does it shorten life? Various answers, mostly indefinite in character, may be forthcoming in reply to this question. Tissue fat must be carried about like any other incubus. We are reminded that overweight puts a strain on the heart and on the joints, and that it pushes up the diaphragm and cramps the lungs. A gaining adult who is already overweight may find his physical activities restrained and bodily exertion made laborious. Accordingly, with an unchanged food intake the surpluses of unused energy accumulate and a vicious cycle is presently established. The obese person inevitably limits his exercise; he grows heavier from the unused reserves, and his activity thereupon becomes even more restrained and limited. Overfeeding, obesity, and lack of exercise interplay until 'big' becomes bigger."

"Joslin has uttered a more specific incrimination against overweight as a menace to well-being. In a well-directed argument based on elaborate statistical material, he has reached the conclusion that diabetes is largely a obesity, and the greater the obesity, the more likely is nature to enforce it. There is a widespread tendency on the part of many clinicians to 'explain' perhaps one should say to excuse obesity as the result of constitutional causes independent of mere overeating in ultimate analysis. Undoubtedly, there are such instances. Granted there is one person in a thousand, Joslin writes, who has some such inherent peculiarity which has led to obesity, there are 999 for whom being fat implies too much food or too little exercise or both combined."

"It will not be denied that other predisposing factors may play a part in the genesis of diabetes. Joslin's thesis helps, however, to explain its incidence in many recognized ways. Conjugal diabetes becomes an instance of simultaneous exposure to good food; the comparative frequency of diabetes among the well-to-do classes is readily understood in the light of their liberality of diet; diabetes as a sequel to infectious diseases may be an expression of the overfeeding of convalescence."

THE BROKEN LAUGH

By Meg Villars. New York: Robert M. McBride and Co. $2.

On the flyleaf of "The Broken Laugh," a novel of more than usual literary excellence, the author quotes Galsworthy's statement that "what is called virtue is, nearly always, only luck." In the story which follows Meg Villars does not editorially endorse the sentiment that lack of virtue is its own reward, but she does present sympathetically one instance in which it precedes a great and spiritually fine happiness.

The reader's sympathy with this story will depend almost entirely upon his conception of the importance of conventionally fixed morality. Those whose experience of egotism a dear has led them to the charitable belief that "circumstances alter cases" will accord the author the fullest measure of respect for her honesty and courage, sincerity and frankness; those whose yardstick of "good" and "bad" conduct is unelastic will condemn both book and heroine.

This heroine "Kissy" Dalton, herself the illegitimate child of a dancer, is seduced when she is still scarcely more than a child. Circumstances, in league with unsophistication, land her in a "house" in the Rue Macabre of Paris, where she earns a living as maid of all work to the inmates and where she meets a young Englishman of breeding.

A love of the finest calibre grows up between "Kissy" and the Englishman, and, through it her too affectionate heart is nearly broken on the rack of conventional morality. The lovers go to Brussels, where they "live on the square like a true-married pair." They are planning to be married when the war intervenes and separates them. The chronicle of their life together in Brussels, which takes up a goodly part of the book, furnishes some excellent pictures of the invasion of that city by the Germans and of living conditions there under the German occupation.

"Kissy," whose character the author has succeeded in making very real, is close kin to Minnie Goodrich of McFee's "Casuals of the Sea." Like Minnie, she is splendidly unrepentant to the end, no less scornful than Minnie of the conventions, but, because of humbler spirit, less defiant of them. She "never meant to be wicked," never "felt wicked," but always felt that she "wasn't really respectable." She would admit no dishonesty in her relationship, but in the humbleness of her love

English Planes To Seek For Oil In South America

London, April 9.—Two sea-planes are leaving England soon to search for oil in South America.

Managing Director Pliers of the British Controlled Oil Fields Company told a Daily Mail reporter that his firm is sending two flying-boats to survey the delta of the Orinoco River. He was enthusiastic at the prospects of the new venture.

"Accompanying the sea planes," he added, "will be the biggest men in the scientific world whom we can obtain, and the best photographers. Photography will be all-important, for oil lands show a partly destroyed vegetation in parched ground, and the camera will reveal the areas which have this distinctive feature, the tributaries which run into the parent spring, and the forest roads and approaches which will be of use to us."

EVEREST TO BE STORMED BY SCIENTIFIC PARTY

Eight Britons Hope To Reach Spot Untrampled Yet By Human Beings

London, March 26.—With the departure this week of Harold Darchun, chief climber of the Mount Everest expedition, the adventure to reach the last untrampled spot in the world may be regarded as formally launched. All equipment and provisions have been despatched for Major Morshead's survey, and the party will assemble at Darjeeling April 1.

The expedition, which is organized and financed by the Royal Geographical Society and the Alpine Club, will be the best equipped of any that has been sent out on a similar undertaking. The greatest care has been taken to secure the best scientific instruments and other paraphernalia, such as tents, sleeping bags and boots.

It is estimated that the cost of the expedition will be between £20,000 and £40,000, while the duration of the expedition will probably exceed two years.

The main object is to reach the summit of the highest mountain in the world, and the climbers must go four thousand feet higher than any human being ever climbed without the use of an airplane. But a much greater period will be spent in the subsidiary objects of the expedition. A complete survey will be made of the country and there will be much scientific research in geological, physiological and zoological sciences.

FEAR EFFECT ON CLIMBERS

A further point of interest will be the effect of the altitude on the climber. The highest point yet attained is 24,500 feet, but the extra 4,000 feet cause grave doubts in some minds as to the possibility of maintaining the continued exertion necessary to climb the additional distance in an atmosphere corresponding to that altitude.

No white man has ever been within forty or fifty miles of the base of Mount Everest and all the country around is unknown. The first thing will be to find the way there before planning the ascent. It is proposed to establish camps on the mountain-side and to make caches of food so as to facilitate the final dash.

The expedition has been organized with the same care as would be taken in preparing for a polar trip, since the most intense cold will be encountered, and the effect of this on the human body will be greater than that experienced in the polar regions on account of the difference in the atmosphere. The climbers must be protected against the cold and at the same time against sunstroke, including burns from the ultra-violet rays that probably will be experienced, which possibility is being considered as likely to prove one of the most serious problems and one which is often experienced in climbing the Himalayas. The ice topped peak also holds a peril in addition to that of the natural dryness and the power of the sun.

Transportation is another serious problem. The railroad ends at Darjeeling, and from there the carrying of packs will be necessary. For the last 120 miles no pack service exists, so it will be necessary to train native coolies for this purpose, and these will need special attention in order to stand the rigors which they will be called upon to face.

THREE POSSIBLE ROUTES

There are three possible routes, two being through Tibet and one through Nepal, but the latter has been abandoned because Nepal is a closed country and it has been seen that the southern slopes are not so easy of ascent as are the northern. Therefore, it remained for the scientists to choose between the two northern routes, one following the course of the Tista Valley through Sikkim, a State in India tributary to Bengal, and the other following the trade route as far as Tenger Dzong.

The Tista route has been abandoned in favor of the longer way because of the fever peculiar to the leech ridden valley it would be necessary to traverse.

There will be eight members of the expedition, all Britons, under Col. Raeburn, who is already famous as a mountain climber. The party includes Dr. A. M. Kellas, a specialist on high altitudes and who is an expert in the use of oxygen. Another member will be Major Morshead, who surveyed India and reached the saddle of Kamei in Tibet.

British scientists feel that with these men in the expedition and with sufficient funds available to go the limit the expedition has every chance of success.

COSTLY FIRE IN HARBIN

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Harbin, May 11.—A tremendous fire occurred here yesterday which has destroyed a whole block of buildings on the Zavadskaya street in the Pristan. Owing to the strong wind the flames were only able to prevent the flames from spreading to the neighboring streets but could not save the burning houses.

The fire continued all night and the losses are very great. Amongst the destroyed buildings are: The tobacco factory, Alfes; two carriage factories and others. This fire is only the continuation of a regular fire epidemic which has been raging in Harbin all through the winter.
